Did you ever think why a bank is safe? Because its business is to be safe. It is in business to guard money. Yet some people keep money in their homes where the chances of its being stolen or burned or lost are a hundred-fold more than they would be with a bank.

If you have any surplus money place it with this bank, where it would be safe. You can get it whenever you want it, and if it should stay here six months or a year it would earn interest at the rate of 4 per cent. compounding twice a year.

Just a Few of Our Many Good Things

F you have called, you are already familiar with the sterling values which have attracted Paducah housewives to our store in such large numbers during the GREAT CLOSING OUT-AT-COST SALE. But we are by no means sold out. Just to show you what values we are offering in American made china come in and see the handsomely decorated 35c salad bowlyou can get for 18c. We have lots of these now, as our entire stock of them has been transferred from the wholesale to the retail department. But they won't last long at these prices. So come in early. Some cake plates in the same class which have always sold for 50c, now 33c.

We were unable to cancel the orders for many of the rare and beautiful pieces of hand painted French, Japanese and Austrian china (in sets and open stock, too,) which were especially imported for the benefit of discriminating buyers at Christmas time. As there are no exceptions to our sell-at-cost rule, you have an opportunity to buy for absolutely what we paid the manufacturer. And they are exclusive patterns, too. If you buy a set no one in Paducah or anywhere else will have one just like it. That's always a pleasant feeling to the woman who loves beautiful china. And remember that it's not "too expensive to use." Come in and see it, if only for the pleasure it will give you.

public schools for the first month of the fall term show an increase over the same month last year, a very gratifying fact to the school authorities. There are several features about the enrollment and attendance that are even more encouraging to the authorities than the fact that the total enrollment is better.

During the month of September the total enrollment showed 3164 pupils. Last year during the same month the total enrollment was 3130

The figures show that there is an increase in the white schools in enrollment of 112 and a decrease in colored enrollment of 78.

The increase in regular daily at tendance comes from the boys, a very gratifying fact in the eyes of the teachers, Generally the daily avattendance is better among the girls but since the athletic and social features have been added in the schools the boys as well as girls take a livelier interest in it.

The average total daily attendance however is not equal to that of last because of the scarlet fever scare and other matters which had tendency to reduce the attendance

At the close of the first term this ear the High school will be larger than any previous High school, having possibly over 190 enrolled.

At present the enrollment is 135 but 50 pupils from the eighth grades will come in during the middle of the season, at the close of the first term, which will swell the enrollment to nearly two hundred. Last year the total enrollment at the closof school was 166

No. 5 of the Series

"Well," he growled, "I suppose i can't be helped. Dou't know why he couldn't come and have his dinner first Like to see the deathbed I'd go to with out my dinner. It's a full skin billet, it you ask me. Well, we must just dine without him, and he'll have to buy his pig in a poke after all. Mind touching that bell? Suppose you know what he came to see me about? Sorry I shan't see him again, for his own sake. liked Raffles-took to him amazingly He's a cynic. Like cynics. One myself. Rank bad form of his mother or his aunt, and I hope she will go and kick the bucket."

I connect these specimens of his con versation, though they were doubtless detached at the time and interspersed with remarks of mine here and there. They filled the interval until dinner was served, and they gave me an impression of the man which his every subsequent utterance confirmed. It was an impression which did away with all remorse for my treacherous presence at his table. He was that terrible type, the silly cynic, his aim a caustic commentary on all things and all men, his achievement mere vulgar irreverence and unintelligent sccrn Ill bred and ill informed, he had (on his own showing) fluked into fortune on a rise in land. Yet cunning he pos sessed as well as malice, and he chuc kled till be choked over the misfortune of less astute speculators in the same boom. Even now I cannot feel much compunction for my behavior to the Hon. J. M. Craggs, M. L. C. But never shall I forget the private agonies of the situation, the listening to my host with one ear and for Raffles with the other! Once I heard him, though the rooms were not di vided by the old fashioned folding doors, and, though the door that did divide them was not only shut, but richly curtained, I could have sworn I heard him once. I spilled my wine and laughed at the top of my voice at some coarse sally of my bost's. and I heard nothing more, though my ears were on the strain. But later, to tny horror, when the walter bad finally withdrawn, Craggs himself sprang up and rushed to his bedroom without a word. I sat like stone till he returned.

"Thought I heard a door go," he said. "Must have been mistakenimagination-gave me quite a turn. Raffles tel' you priceless treasure I

It was the picture at last. Up to this point I had kept him to Queensland and the making of his pile. I tried to get him back there now, but in vain. He was reminded of his great, ill gotten possession. I said that Raffles had just mentioned it, and that set him off. With the confidential garrulity of a man who had dined too well he plunged into his darling topic, and I looked past him at the clock. It was only a quarter to 10.

In common decency I could not go yet, so there I sat (we were still at port) and learned what had originally fired my host's ambition to possess what he was pleased to call a "real, genuine, twin screw, double funneled, copper bottom old master." It was to "go one better" than some rival legis lator of pictorial proclivities. But even an epitome of his monologue would be so much weariness. Suffice it that it ended inevitably in the invitation I had dreaded all the evening.

"But you must see it. Next room This way." "Isn't it packed up?" I inquired has tily.

"Lock and key. That's all."

"Pray don't trouble," I urged. "Trouble be hanged!" said he

"Come along." And all at once I saw that to re sist him further would be to heap suspicion upon myself against the mcment of impending discovery. I therefore followed him into his bedroom without further protest and suffered him first to show me the iron map case, which stood in one corner. He took a crafty pride in this receptacle, and I thought he would never cease decanting on its innocent appearance and its Chubb's lock. It seemed an interminable age before the key was and my pulse stood still.

"Thought it would knock you," said Craggs, drawing it out and unrolling it for my benefit. "Grand thing, ain't it? Wouldn't think it had been painted 230 years? It has, though-my word! Old Johnson's face will be a treat when he sees it; wou't go bragging about his pictures much more. Why, this one's worth all the pictures in the colony o' Queensland put together; worth £50,000, my boy-and I got it for five!"

He dug me in the ribs and seemed in the mood for further confidences. My appearance checked him, and he rubbed his kands.

"If you take it like that," he chuckled, "how will old Johnson take it? Go out and hang himself to his own picture rods, I hope!"

Heaven knows what I contrived to say at last. Struck speechless first by my relief, I continued silent from a very different cause. A new tangle of emotions tied my tongue. Raffles had failed! Raffles had failed! Could I not succeed? Was it too late? Was there no way?

"So long," he said, taking a last look at the canvas before he rolled it up. "so long till we get to Brisbane."

The flutter I was in as he closed the

"For the last time," he went on as his keys jingled back into his pocket. "It goes straight into the strong room on board."

For the last time! If I could but send him out to Australia with only its legitimate contents in his precious map case! If I could but succeed where Raffles had failed!

We returned to the other room. I have no notion how long he talked or and stood looking on with raised eyewhat about. Whisky and soda water brows. became the order of the hour. I scarcely touched it, but he drank copiously, and before 11 I left him incoherent. And the last train for Esher was the 11:50 out of Waterloo.

I took a hansom to toy rooms. I was back at the hotel in thirteen minutes. I walked upstairs. The corridor was empty. I stood an instant on the sitting room threshold heard a snore within and admitted myself softly with my gentleman's own key, which it had been a very simple matter to take away with me.

Craggs never moved. He was stretched on the sofa fast asleep, but not fast enough for me. I saturated and might have made him happy for was formed on First street and they my handkerchief with the chloroform life. And you go and rob him of that!" marched to the cemetery. The monunot fast enough for me. I saturated I had brought and laid it gently over his mouth. Two or three stertorous breaths, and the man was a log.

I removed the handkerchief. I extracted the keys from his pocket. In less than five minutes I put them back took some whisky and soda water before I went.

The train was easily caught-so in my first class smoking carriage, in terror of every footstep on the plat-form, in unreasonable terror till the "Another time." end. Then at last I sat back and lit a cigarette, and the lights of Waterloo reeled out behind.

Some men were returning from the theater. I can recall their conversation even now. They were disappointan argume as to whether the air was troubles any of us again." out of "Patience" or "The Mikado." They all got out at Surbiton, and I was was in the room which had been prelone with my triumph for a few intoxicating minutes. To think that I do so then. But he followed me and had succeeded where Raffles had failed! Of all our adventures this was

How to Get Well.

Every organ of the body is directly connected with the brain by nerves. The nerve cells in the brain generate nerve force-power-and send it to the organ through these nerves, and this nerve-force gives life and action. The organs work perfectly when there is sufficient nerve power. Lack of nerve force weakens the action of an organ and it works imperfectly-becomes sick.

Two-thirds of all sickness is thus due to weak or deranged nerves; it is therefore advisable to take Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, because it makes nerve energy.

When you cure the nerves you remove the cause, and that's the way to get well.

that's the way to get well.

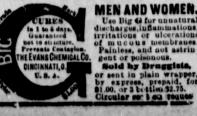

"Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine cured me of nervous prostration after every other effort had failed to give me relief. My trouble seemed to begin with a general loss of strength and a breaking down of the nervous system. I suffered from headache, constipation and fluttering or palpitation of the heart. My appetite failed and I was so nervous and restless that I could not sleep at night. My husband, who is a druggist, brought me a bottle of Nervine. It helped me from the start, and I continued using it until I had taken six bottles. My health was completely restored."
